

Wipro- Nature Forever Society Sparrow Award Nominations for 2022

Nominations are invited for the 2022 Sparrow Awards, which are aimed at recognising the exceptional contribution made by individuals and organizations for the protection and conservation of the environment.

Sparrow Awards

Nature Forever Society launched its first Sparrow Awards on March 20, 2011 to honour unsung environment heroes who have been silently making a difference to the environment over the years. NFS noticed that in the conservation field the best known conservationists consistently receive accolades for their good work, however there were many others who made consistent efforts in their own right to save the environment but were not recognized. The sentiment behind launching the Sparrow Awards was to honour such people and applaud their silent efforts. And thus Sparrow Awards came into being.

Some of the best nominees are often the people who wouldn't dream of putting themselves forward, which is why we need you to do it for them

One need not be professional ecologist or a nature conservation organization to bag this award. The award will honor individuals and organizations that by their sheer determination and gallant efforts have been making a significant contribution to the conservation of nature and biodiversity. The award is for contribution made in any field of environmental conservation and not necessarily Sparrow Conservation.
